

FOLLY FARMS

AFTER-SCHOOL AT THE BARN

the after-school place for kids who love horses

riding & horsemanship instruction in a positive & supportive farm environment

Guiding principles of our after-school program at Folly Farms:

- Genuine concern for the personal development, self-esteem and well being of your child
- Commitment to provide quality horsemanship and riding instruction
- Desire to share with your child our compassion and appreciation for horses as fellow living creatures placed in our care

After-School Format

The heart of our program is a one-hour group riding lesson. We work with all riding levels. Children can also observe horse training, horse care, study or do barn chores. The program is offered Tuesday through Thursday. Your child may participate one, two or three days of the week.

Individual Needs of Each Child

We are honored to work closely with parents and teachers to address the individual needs of each child.

- Schoolwork always comes first. Do you want us to check to see if homework has been done before your child rides?
- Does your child need help with his/her homework?

Transportation

We may be able to provide limited transportation to the barn from some area schools. First, check with your friends about car pooling!

Rates

Monthly rates are based upon the number of days/week attended. If your child comes once/week, it is $150/mo; twice/week = $250/mo; three times/week = $350/mo.

We are committed to the overall development of your child – whether that be in overcoming fear, improving social skills, in becoming a skilled horse person, in accepting responsibility or in developing compassion, perseverance or focus.

Facilitators: Paul Bostrom, owner and operator of Folly Farms, is a horse professional with a lifetime of horse experience. He is gifted in training horses and instructing youth and adults in developing horsemanship skills, which carry over into life skills. Julie McCrary is a certified facilitator of Equine Assisted Learning programs through EAGALA (Equine Assisted Growth and Learning Association).
